Are there Geographies?

A study on the relationship between artistic practice and sense of place.

The conference, organized by Alessandro Castiglioni, collects different studies, both artistic and curatorial share a particular interest in places, understood as nodal points where measurements and experiences coming into the dialogue. Through the tools of cultural anthropology, art research and publishing, the invited speakers will share with the audience their own projects with the aim of highlighting a specific practice. The starting point will be the text Isolario, geographical notes on the work of Barbara De Ponti published in 2014 by Postemdiabooks, and point of reflection for the day of study.
